A NEWSLETTER OF THE KENTUCKY TENNESSEE LITERATURE EVANGELISTS

"There is no higher work than evangelistic canvassing, for it involves the performance of the highest moral duties. Those who engage in this work need always to be under the control of the Spirit of God." - CM 12

You're here!

The Open Door, page 68

Raeann Leal knocked on a door, just as she had done hundreds of times before. She was surprised by a very welcoming smile and the words, "You're here." The woman, who said her name was Josie, continued, "You're the students, right?" At that moment her husband arrived home in his car, and Josie waved her hands wildly and said, "The students are here, the students are here!" As he got out of his car, he exclaimed, "We've been waiting for you for so long!" Raeann was somewhat in disbelief. "We've been waiting for you students with the books for over a year now," said Josie. "What other books do you have that we don't have?"

They revealed the story. Four years earlier, a student had knocked on Josie's door, and she rejected him. The next year, she rejected another student. The third year, she got a Final Events DVD by Doug Batchelor; she watched it and loved it. The next year, a student, Anna, knocked on her door, and Josie chose The Great Controversy for her husband. In January of that year, her husband finally picked up The Great Controversy, and read it through twice; he was now reading it for a third time.

Raeann's leader arrived at this point and began talking to the husband. The husband was very excited. "I have never seen anyone more excited," the leader said later. "He was waving his hands."

"The church must give her attention to the canvassing work. This is one way in which she is to shine in the world. Then she will go forth, fair as the moon, clear as the sun and terrible as an army with banners." RH Jan. 1, 1901

The man then asked, “Why don’t you guys come every six months, instead of only once a year? How much money do you want for these books? I will pay good money for them. Is twenty dollars for each one good enough?” He showed Raeann his extensive library of Christian books, and then proceeded to choose six of her books and give a $100 donation. Raeann told the couple about the location of the local Seventh-day Adventist church, and invited them to visit.

The very next Sabbath – only three days later – Josie came to church and sat with Raeann, and her leader. After church, the rest of the students (about fifteen of them) met her, and she said to them: “You all should never stop doing what you are doing. I rejected the students two years in a row!” She added, “I recently talked to my pastor about the Sabbath, and my pastor told me to leave! The Bible has come alive to me this year, more than any year, in the last twenty years.” With students gathered around, the pastor prayed for her, and when he had finished, she was crying. “This is what heaven is going to be like,” Josie said, “with all these kind of people around you.”

Religious Liberty Campaign

Religious Liberty Offering
Sabbath, January 23, 2020

The Southern Union’s Religious Liberty Campaign runs from January to March, each year. Our Religious Liberty Offering is Sabbath, January 23, 2020. We take one Sabbath each year to focus on religious freedom, because religious liberty can’t be taken for granted. It’s an opportunity to remember and pray for the millions of men, women, and children who continue to suffer harassment, discrimination, and even imprisonment or physical harm, because they choose faithfulness to God, no matter what. It’s also a chance to remember why defending religious freedom—not only for fellow church members, but for every human being—continues to be a core value of the Adventist Church. Prayerfully consider, in preparation, what you want to give towards your Religious Liberty Offering, on January 23rd!
